

Dear colleagues,

We would like to inform you with pleasure that this year is the special occasion for our scientific meeting in connection with

10th International Seminar ‘Science-Society-Didactic’(SSD)

„Role of teacher in the real and virtual world”.

Two years ago we have discussed health models in different educational contexts and last year we have undertaken the discourse related to the role of the teacher - tutor, adviser and school teacher in shaping attitudes in the light of contemporary social and scientific problems. The last two years have shown that social change and technology are the main catalysts for educational challenges and that is why we want to continue our reflection.

Now we would like to propose the following areas of topics:

- I. New educational strategies
- II. ICT in teacher's work
- III. The role of volunteering in social values' formation
- IV. Teacher as generator of social changes
- V. Teacher training in the conditions of new social needs

This year the Seminar will be held in European Center of Permanent and Multi-medial Education, University of Cracow and is organized by Department of Didactics and Methodology of Educational Research and Department of School Pedagogy and Academic Didactics.
